

Moon, its phases

Design Enzo Berti

Intriguing, empathic, mysterious as the moon: Moon is a flexible system made by stool|table in marble and wood with a metal base and the shape of the seat and tabletop recall the moon phases.

Just like the phases of the moon, the tabletop is a circle that perfectly joins the “three-quarters” of the stool.

As a matter of fact, the seat and the side table can be on their own or be hooked one with the other in a sort of bunch of seats and tops: if you see it from above, the system looks like a blooming of many marble colors in contrast with wood.

Both for home and contract. Moon has an immediate appeal. Single or in-group, it is surely an unconventional and refined design choice, but also really useful for an additional guest or a comfortable support.
