HUG: marble and wood in an embrace.

Design by Matteo Nunziati

Drawing an embrace between the two most famous natural materials, wood and marble, is the idea of the Hug sink and tub collection, a balance between two elements that, although completely different, are enhanced reciprocally.

HUG is the name that unites the two new products in the collection. Conceived as a whole, they can also be purchased individually.

Marble and wood, among the noblest natural materials, are sewn together with a sartorial soul: the solidity and gloss of the stone welcomes the feeling of warmth and tranquility of the eucalyptus wood, an unusual material for the bathroom.

The veins of the stone approach those of the frisé eucalyptus, a suggestive figured wood, creating two freestanding objects with unrepeatable nuances: elegant and functional furnishings elements characterized by a timeless style, which together give a sense of unity to the bathroom environment.

Housing spaces are incorporated in the design both for the tub and for the sink, either visible or, in the case of the sink, also retractable, which optimize its use. For the sink, we find an internal compartment too, with a push-pull system concealed.

The elegance and linearity of these shapes have been designed to be easily specified in hospitality projects as well as residential environments.
